

Almost Real

Rollins Band

I looked deep into your eyes
Saw men lying broken
Shattered at the bottom of your well
Sent them packing straight to hell
You took their simple affection
Turned it into bad infection
Reality threatens you
I see what sweats you
You can't hide yourself from me
Canine men
Fighting, lying, trying to be the one
When you see the one that sees through you - It's me I see them lined up like broken heroes
That gets to feel your touch
Spitting out pieces of their broken luck
Because to me it never meant that much
I guess I've got good sense and hindsight When you see the one that laughs at you - It's me
Wasted time spent thinking about you
You know I've come to hate myself
Smashing my hands against the wall
Trying to forget the foolish way I felt
You're so kind when it serves you well Your cruelty
No more trying
No more lying
No more messing around with my mind I'm going, I'm gone
You must think I'm blind
Because now I see you
You won't find my arms around you
When you need those arms around you When you see the one that sees through you
When you see the one that laughs at you - It's me
