

On the Starry Path

Distant Sun

I always thought when I was young I'd have a story to be told but I let the hot blood all run cold Oh have I let the past become too old? Has it all just run its course? Can I still feel it anymore? I've got all the power tonight but I know it might go out When I know there is a chance how can I just pass it by and see it all go crashing back down to the ground? No I won't be leaving my life behind Counting nights as they roll on by Giving up on what I could
When I never understood
I've got one more chance to do what I should So I won't be leaving and I won't be losing this life of mine I look up to who you are, I'm so sorry if I ever made you doubt yourself
If I find another way I'll go right back to the start and lead us from this dark decay to somewhere else So I won't be leaving my life behind Counting nights as they roll on by
Giving up on what I could
When I never understood
I've got one more chance to do what I should
So I won't be leaving and I won't be losing If I had the chance again I'd follow you on the starry path and change my point of view You kept me thinking that it's just behind the door, but can I still feel it anymore? I won't be leaving my life behind
Counting nights as they roll on by
Giving up on what I could
When I never understood
I've got one more chance to do what I should
So I won't be leaving and I won't be losing No I won't be leaving and I won't be losing this life of mine.
