

Tell Me

Jonah33

All of my sincere apologies
Have been redirected unto you
It seems our halos have become
Simply loopholes that we use
For redirection
Of our imperfection
Tell me, is there something I can do?
For you to help you change your view
And say, I am not the enemy
Tell me, tell me, tell me
It appears you've become so content
Handing out your stubborn judgments
So show and tell your benefits
Of your beliefs and negligence
?Cause not so long ago
You used to be the one you hate
Tell me, is there something I can do?

For you to help you change your view
And say, I am not the enemy
Tell me, tell me, tell me
Broken trust
And a broken life
Create in you
A twisted lie
Take a second glance
At what you can fit inside of your intellect
Then tell me then
How can it be God?
Tell me, is there something I can do
For you to help you change your view
And say, I am not the enemy
Tell me, tell me, tell me
I am not your enemy
Tell me, tell me

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>