

The Levels

Ben Watt

Your state agent's been over, I've resurfaced the driveway
I'm selling flowers round the pavement, made it nice up the place
I'm up the selling of business, my heart is an ended
Without your face over the counter, without your face Some nights I'm out there on the levels
Through the village, pass the church where we got married
And I can see for miles Now, there is the future, what's it standing in my way?
Right now it's my past, and it's not moving forth Some nights I'm out there on the levels
And the ditches and the fields are flooded by the river
And I can see for miles
And I know its only daylight that we all walk through
And everybody has wounds that heal in time
And I'll get over mine x2 Some nights I'm out there on the levels
And were talking like we used to
And its me who does the talking
Are we out there for a while? And I can see for miles
