Brooklyn Dodgers

I Am the Avalanche

I look at a graveyard, while I'm in the shower
And I, I sing my songs
Nine in the morning, when the water boiling
Late, late at night, I think to myselfWhat ever happened to the Brooklyn Dodgers
What ever happened to me
What ever happened to all the New York gentlemen
My dad he said "Son your looking at one"I mentioned my dad, because he jokes about
The times that he's had back when he was a hippy
And how our relatives changed their names
Just to seem more AmericanWhat ever happened to the Brooklyn Dodgers
What ever happened to me
What ever happened to all the New York gentlemen
My dad he said "Son your looking at one"
He said "Son your looking at one"Hey, hey, hey, hey, hey
We said we'd go our own way
And hey, hey, hey, hey
Why don't we start today, today
(said we'd go our own way)What happened to those days
Tell me, tell meWhat ever happened to the Brooklyn Dodgers
What ever happened to me
What ever happened to all the New York gentlemen
Did they just float out to sea
What ever happened to all the New York gentlemen
My dad he said "Son your looking at one"
Said "Your looking at one"

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/