

The Invisible Man (2002 Remastered Version)

Generation X

Everywhere he goes and everything he does
Everything proves him that he don't exist for them
They don't understand what the invisible man understands
Everyday he tries and every night he dies
Looking for someone like him, someone who don't walk by him
Someone who knows what the invisible man understands
He doesn't know, he don't sell cars, never famous and know one knows
Sticks and stones can't hurt him
You can dance on his grave when he's gone
But the invisible man will still touch your hand
'Til you understand what he wants, oh, well, look out
Do you think you know him?
Do you think that you know him?
All the lies and deceit you give, the curses and cries you give
Do you understand what the invisible man understands?
Invisible man, do you understand? Maybe it is you
Invisible man, do you understand? Maybe it is you
Maybe it is you, maybe it is you
Maybe it is you, maybe it is you
Do you think you understand?
Do you think you understand?
