Home

Abra Moore

Hey, what's your name?
Do you live around here?
Don't I know your face?
You say I've been a stranger for too long.
And I didn't even notice I was gone
And I wanna come back home
Show me the way to make a start
Show me the road back to your heart
And I've learned the only truth I need to know
There's a million places I can go, but without you it ain't home.
Please say
What I need to hear you say
Say I'm thoughtless and foolish
But say it's not too late
Now I don't know exactly where we go from here
Trying is the only way we'll know
And I wanna come back home
Show me the way to make a start
Show me the road back to your heart
And I've learned the only truth I need to know
There's a million places I can go, but without you it ain't
It ain't hopeless please believe me.
Don't give up cause we're halfway there
We're at the crossroads in the middle
Between hope between despair
All we need is some direction
Let me know you're there for me
Where you are is where I'll be
Show me the way to make a start
Show me the road back to your heart
And I've learned the only truth I need to know
There's a million places I can go but without you it ain't home
It ain't home.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/