Beliefs and Obsessions

Shai Hulud

Lies of self-indulgent pride
A sense of justice misdirected for the sake of the lost
A claim to inflict punishment for those who have been unjust
And there's a line that can't be crossed between belief and obsessionNonexistent caring based on situation ethics
No benefit can come from the line being drawn
To be guided by faith, is to be, is to be mislead
A joke to the weak, a fixation to the strong
So who's wrong and who will decide what's right?With so few actions, so many words
Won't take this complacency anymore
I won't accept the criticism of my peers
I won't accept this objection
I cannot judge others lives only to justify my own
One more word and I've broken, one more word

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/