

Skeleton Dance

Teleman

Everyone talking trying to get me you
Hanging around your rumbled eyes
Maybe you think I'm dumb or I'm crazy
Why do you think I'm standing by your side Can you carry me back to where I came from Carry me back to rolling hills
All along I try to remember
Why I had left, why I'm here still Skeleton dance with me round the bed room
Rattling bones and
Laughing so loud
Happiest day that I've ever known
Is leaving me with no doubt Cupboard is empty go to your phone book
Back in the car and down to your house
Talk about those times of your childhood
Telling me tells I can do without
I was the one who made you fall over
Tying your laces
Pushing you down
But you were the one kept trying to get closer
Carrying on till I was worn out My skeleton dance with me round the bed room
Rattling bones and
Laughing so loud
Happiest day that I've ever known
Leaving me with no doubt And I've come to life, at last
My lightness must have left
In the night, for now
And I'm so glad you've come home We sat in the kitchen drawing our faces
Through the window Coco's there
'Can I come in' she said in her eyes
Green and then she runs of again
I was the one who made you fall over
Tying your laces
Pushing you down
But you were the one kept trying to get closer
Carrying on till I was worn out My skeleton dance with me round the bed room
Rattling bones and
Laughing so loud
Happiest day that I've ever known
Is leaving me with no doubt And I've come to life, at last
My lightness must have left

In the night, for now
And I'm so glad you've come home
