

Shooting Star

Deepest Blue

It's black and white picture
A smile from the past
That tattooed the moments we had Like a treasured possession
A gift from the gods
Everything is falling apart You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more 'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain I know that you're leaving
And nothing stays the same
Broken heart adventures mislaid Numbed all my feelings
Take away the pain
The hour hand is stealing you away You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more 'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain You just don't care anymore
You're just not there any more 'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain 'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without a trace
And you shot so far that your mind began to race
What's the point in color when you're gray?
'Cos you're a shooting star that fell without the rain

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>