

Mary

Serial Joe

She lifts the cup up to her lips
And leaves reality behind
She looks away, and takes a sip
Shes lost, what can she find? Her thoughts become weary
She feels a step behind
Her lifes been slowly slipping away
From friends and time Mary drinks and Mary thinks
And soon shell lie down
Just to break down and cry Its so degrading
She is slowly fading
Mary drinks
Then, shell break down and cry Mary weeps, then she sleeps
One more day slipping away
Shes drowning in the shallow end
The rules she cant obey On the surface, so callous
Silent screams subside
A life without purpose
Her will has already died Mary drinks and Mary thinks
And soon shell lie down
Just to break down and cry Its so degrading
She is slowly fading
Mary drinks
Then, shell break down and cry Shadows dreaming
Cant feel a thing
Her ends, they start to fray
And then, she fades away Shadows dreaming, shes cant feel no pain
She cant feel a thing
Cant feel a thing, cant feel a thing
She cant feel a thing Mary drinks and Mary thinks
And soon shell lie down
Just to break down and cry Mary drinks and Mary thinks
And soon shell lie down
Just to break down and cry Its so degrading
She is slowly fading
Mary drinks
Then, shell break down and cry
