

Beneath These Falling Leaves

In the Silence

Another leaf is falling and your words disappear within the empty silence it's all becoming clear

And as we finally reach the end don't know if I'll be here again, with you beneath these falling leaves

Another leaf has fallen there's smoke left in your wake between the empty spaces all light fades away

And as we finally reach the end
beneath these falling leaves

And now we see our mother raped, broken, and abused but will she bury us?
Or will we choose to carry on in light if we are in time, to heal this broken dream for lives we'll never see

We all waded through these lies and see through their disguise so read between the lines or leave it all behind
