King Tide

Neil Finn

It's a dark and empty room
The sun beating hard on your door
Feel emotion roar within you
You're flesh and blood like anyoneMake some sense of your life
Move your hand and make the mark
I don't know why you're so confused
You're flesh and blood, there's no excuseAnd the hunger inside
Won't go away, it's starting to rise
And the longer you hide
The more you denyAnd the sea rushes in
The wind is howling at your back
The past is always overturned
It's a dead man who would refuse
And twice the man to fill his shoesAnd the hunger inside
Won't go away, it's starting to rise
And the longer you hide
The more you denyAnd the hunger inside
Won't go away, it's starting to rise
And the sea rushes in
Into my worldI can feel the king tide coming
All my senses overflowing
One night waiting out the back
Horns blow and cymbals crashSo paint a circle in the sky
I lay breathless in the arms of love
There's a bruise on my back
And a new understanding too
