Dax Riggs

All this fades and reappears and we will always be everywhere everything dreams tonight
        don't bleed it so white the fragile waves of days they break against the shore of all these years
            don't scream and bite
            if all death is as bright
