

Since I Had You

Marvin Gaye

This is a story about two lovers who shouldn't have been
They did their thing, went their separate ways again
Then by chance, they happen to meet at the neighborhood dance
Got that feeling all over again He said, "How much have you missed me since I had you?
How much? Ooh baby, how much? [Incomprehensible]
Oh, I really wondered, oh baby
Wondered if you remember baby, how could you [Incomprehensible]?
Such a thrill, but it's been so hard since I had you, baby Oh baby, come on, give me a break
'Cause it's been so hard, since I had you, baby Oh, my eyes must look serious
'Cause when I look at you, I get delirious, baby
Your voice sounds so serious
But since we're still friends
Let me make love to you again, baby Don't make me wait so hard
Since I had your sugar, oh baby
Don't make me wait, 'cause it's been so hard
Since I had you baby, ooh, oh baby Oh baby, still you look good, sugar, you look so fine
Still I love you baby, you know, I gotta tell you right now
I must have been a fool that ever let you go without even thinkin'
'Bout the hard, hard, hard, decision, oh, so glad to see you, baby
Let me take you home, let me tell you how I feel about it really, baby Oh, since I had you, girl, I haven't wanted
no other lover
Since I had you, honey, there hasn't been no other lover
Baby, no other lover Since I think you're a lover, darling, I haven't wanted no other lover
Since, since I [Incomprehensible] to me baby, I ain't have no other girl
Or no other woman, but you baby
Since I had, since I did, since I had your love
