Somebody's Baby

Kevin Sharp

Its five oclock at the Sad Cafe
Dinner for one, a table for two
Another lonely dayShe tries to hide the pain
But her strong will is just a weak disguise
Its there in her eyesShe wants to be somebodys baby
She wants to be somebodys friend
She just needs a shoulder to lean on now and thenShes no stranger to danger
Shes had her heart broke, a time or two
She wants to be somebodys baby
But shes nobodys foolSomeone, long ago, promised her the moon
But the fairy tale didnt go so well
It ended way too soonAnd the scars of love
Have been known to take some time to heal
Cant you see how she feels?She wants to be somebodys baby
She wants to be somebodys friend
She just needs a shoulder to lean on now and thenShes no stranger to danger
Shes had her heart broke, a time or two
She wants to be somebodys baby
But shes nobodys foolShes no stranger to danger
Shes had her heart broke, a time or two
She wants to be somebodys baby
But shes nobodys fool
