

Greenpoint

The Middle Eight

Segundo, standing by the front door the mayor of the corner Heâ€™s waving, heâ€™s waving us hello Hello, hello, hello, hello, hello
How are you today Segundo?
Weâ€™d love to talk but our time here is runninâ€™ low

Now weâ€™re sitting by the chemically-ridden creek where the air our lungs have rejected Support the words that are poisoning our connections

Chorus:

On the Greenpoint streets that meant so much to you and me the traces of our past life leads me deep into the most unwanted dreams that I have ever known

Alexandra, sheâ€™s waiting for an answer she needs to know what my plans are and in her recently disillusioned eyes I can see that Iâ€™m killing all that she says that she stands for

Chorus

Alexandra says no no
Alexandra says no no

Chorus
