Have You Heard The News?

Howard Jones

Flying through the airwaves
Living through the printed word
Flasher in the living room
Guru of the seen and heard
Who decides what we get to hear?Fuzzy round the edges
Or making it clear?
Blinding us with those facts
Blinding us with those factsHave you heard the news?
Wo, wo, wo, wooo
Have you heard the news?Written on the black and white page
We can't believe what we read
Doubting of reality
Has become the new rage
Who says that truth is stranger than fiction?Money and it will cause less friction
(It talks)
A few white lies for a nice little sensationHave you heard the news?
Wo, wo, wo, wooo
Have you heard the news?Little box in the corner
A picture worth a thousand words
But who chooses which pictures we see?
Who decides on the commentary?
Keeping people in a state of confusionThere's a thin line between facts and illusion
Diverting our attention from big brother in the cityHave you heard the news?
Wo, wo, wo, wooo
Have you heard the news?When will we get, when will we get
To the real nitty gritty, nitty gritty, nitty gritty?
When will we get to it, when will we get to it now?
When will we get to it, when will we get to it?Living through the printed word
(Flasher)
In the living room
Guru of the seen and heard
Who decides what we get to hear?Fuzzy round the edges
Or making it clear
Blinding us with those facts, oh
Blinding us with those factsHave you heard the news?
Wo, wo, wo, wooo
Have you heard the news?
Have you heard, have you heard?Have you heard the news?
Wo, wo, wo, wooo

Have you heard the news?
