

A Big Enough Sky

Josh Ritter

Wanna go where the sweetwater is
Wanna go where the air is pure
Out 'neath the sky so big

I can give my heart to her Somewhere along the line
Our little train jumped the tracks
She lost a little faith in me

It'll take a little time, gonna get it back What happened to the river bed
What happened to the prairie fire

Can you tell me where the lightning went
Every time that you met my eye
Didn't notice when the wind picked up, I
Wasn't looking when the clouds rolled in

If you ever fell out of love

Could you ever fall back again Out where the sweetwater is
Out where the air is pure
Out 'neath the sky so big

I can give my heart to her I've been letting a lot of things slide
I've been letting a lot of things go
I thought I was the one for you

But the truth is, sometimes I don't know What happened to the river bed
What happened to the prairie fire

Can you tell me where the lightning went
Every time that you met my eye
Didn't notice when the wind picked up, I
Wasn't looking when the clouds rolled in

If you ever fell out of love

Could you ever fall back again Out where the sweetwater is
Out where the air is pure
Out 'neath the sky so big

I can give my heart to her Hey, baby, there's a place I found
Still believe that we can stay in love
I believe a lot of things, honey
When the sky is big enough
I believe a lot of things, honey
When the sky is big enough

Songwriters
JOSH RITTERPublished by Lyrics Â© DUCHAMP, INC

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>