

Your Ocean

The Devoted Few

i dreamt of heights last night of broken down cars out of sight you looked so cold at four sleep-stealer knocks down your doorkeep dreaming my dear don't let the dawn hear 'bout riches and kingdoms river's so sheer i know you've been thereyour ocean turned green then grey the morning had shown up late the make-believe day's on its way so throw away your hopes and feelingskeep breathing my dear don't let the dawn hear 'bout where you've been hiding the morning's so bare
