A Part Of Me

Kurt Nilsen

Coming home with the sentence saying 'I've missed you'
And to see your happy face again
There is not a single moment that
I ever think the thought
Of not returning againSummer went and got pale once more
A brand new city I have to explore
I have been searching for good answers and wisdom
I keep on coming back with less, 'cause I've lost themShe does not know that a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
There is nothing I can do with that
She does not know that a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
Never ever coming backThere's no sleep for the living nowadays
Hanging in there with a steady course
I can feel it from the back of my spine
I am totally yoursAutumn comes I've seen it before
Another town it's not that fun anymore
I've been searching for those perfect answers
I need you more right now than everShe does not know
That a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
There is nothing I can do with that
She does not know
That a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
Never ever coming backComing home with the sentence saying 'I've missed you'
And to see your happy face againShe does not know
That a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
There is nothing I can do with that
She does not know
That a part of me has left home
And it's never ever coming back
Never ever coming back
