Green Shades

Sam Ock

I've come to realize the older I get
The lesser I know, the less I respect
The image of a man who boasts in his strength
In mental fortitudes, or of his higher rank
I've come to realize more about knowledge
There's more to life than saying that you "got this"
More to questions than having just the answers
What is pride, but a mental type of cancerKilling you slowly while you're on that pedestal
The world spinnin' under you, while you're standing still Boasting in yourself, I call it weakness
You don't understand the valor in "meekness"
No, see you don't really get it
This is the truth, that doesn't need no edit:
When you humble yourself, then you know
That "love" is dependence, and in that, you grow
Sometimes, I'm stuck in my own world
Can you pull me out?
I wanna love and get yours too
Can you pull me out?If I die, the world won't stop
Spinning on its axis, no it cares not
If my body and soul pass away
What kind of memories will stay?
No, I don't have much to give
I'm still just a kid
Just these testimonies of stupid things I didSometimes, I'm stuck in my own world
Can you pull me out?
I wanna love and get yours too
Can you pull me out?
The catalyst to growth is need
Leanin' on something bigger than me
The catalyst to growth is need, that's why I need my God, you see?
The catalyst to growth is need
Leanin' on something bigger than me
The catalyst to growth is need, that's why I need my God, you see?Sometimes, I'm stuck in my own world
Can you pull me out?
I wanna love and get yours too
Can you pull me out?
