Later

Side A

how could you come with me when you knew all along that you had to gohow could you watch me sleep so close to you pretending not to knowhow could you memorize my name and forget who i amhow could you think you're still the same believing i canit's too late to stop pretending it's too late for a new beginning later than the sunset
later than the rain
later than ever to love you againhow could you ask for more with an innocent smile trusting me to stayhow could you close the door and leave me here supposing I'm okhow could you break down my disguise
and uncover my fearshow could you look into my eyes ignoring my tearsit's too late to start pretending
it's too late for a new beginning
later than the sunset
later than the rain
later than ever to love you again [x2]its too late

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/