

Garden of Love

Raheem DeVaughn

She said: Lay down and take the load off
Then gently her hands caressed my temples.

How 'bout another shot of wine and the scent of slow burning candles for the ambiance... to set the mood. She said: The woman... the lady that I am in the street... well I left her right outside... right outside your door but if it's cool... I can stay the night. Chorus:

And I'll be your heaven... your heavenly garden of loveooveooveooveoove
looooveooveooveooveoove looooveThe angelic nastiness she possessed made me lose my cool
had me so so so subdued.
Love so good... eh
you can hear a pin drop
you can hear the springs pop
you can the headboard knocking'
Like who's is it?
knocking'
who's is it?

knocking... its knock 'it in repeatedly as she said to me... Chorus:
And I'll be your heaven... your heavenly garden of loveooveooveooveoove
looooveooveooveooveoove loooove(As we lay) So there we lay
(We lay as we lay)
Watching the moon become the sun.
(and as the moon become the sun)
Engage for the position of affection and just like magic our pheromones are enraged once again she tellin' me all this nastiness in the morning... Chorus:

And I'll be your heaven... your heavenly garden of loveooveooveooveoove
(ad lib)

looooveooveooveooveoove loooove
See on the rainy nights she promised me that...
Chorus:

And I'll be your heaven...
your heavenly garden of loveooveooveooveoove (Ad lib)
looooveooveooveooveoove looooveAs we listen to the rain... pitter patter on the window pane...
I lay and I pay in the garden... ahhhhh... eh
