Circles and X's

Lucinda Williams

In the doorway soaking wet
It's raining cats and dogs
There's nothing for us to regret
The fire needs more logsYou manage to crack a smile
The sky is big and open
You stay for just a little while
The vows have all been brokenCircles and X's by your name
Day after day will bring a change
Some things will stay the same
Circles and X's by your nameNothing left to be sorry for
But I still sit and sob
When I see you walk across the floor
And put your hand around the doorknobYou head down the drive and hope
The Chevy decides to start
I'm just at the end of my rope
And you're just tugging at my heartYou turn around to wave goodbye
You look at me and linger
The morning hears you sigh
And sunlight reflects off the silver on your fingerCircles and X's by your name
Day after day will bring a change
Some things will stay the same
Circles and X's by your nameCircles and X's by your name
Day after day will bring a change
Some things will stay the same
Circles and X's by your name
Some things will stay the same
Circles and X's by your name
