

All Blues

Miles Davis

The sea, the sky, both you and I the sea, the sky, the you and I I know we're all blues all shades, all hues, all blues some blues are sad but some are glad dark, sad, or bright, glad they're all blues all shades, all hues, all blues A color, a color, the blues is more than a color they're the moan of pain and a taste of strife and a sad refrain which the night is playing blues can be the living dues we are all are paying, yeahh oh lord in a rainbow, a summer day that's fair a prayer that's prayed a lament that's made, yeahh some shade of blue is there, blue is heaven's hue, they're all blues.
