Why Trust You

Alice Cooper

You come on strong with a great big smile
But your teeth are as sharp as a crocodile
You promised me the moon and the stars and the sun
But you never did nothin' for anyoneCan't look me in the face or straight in the eye
I'd buy the movie rights to your alibi
I wonder how long you will go
I wonder how high your head will blowYou're a psychopathic liar
Your soul is on fire
You're bluffin' with nothin'
While the stakes are gettin' higherWhy trust you
You never made a dream come true
Why trust you
Give me one good reason, one good reason whyYou come to me all teary-eyed
With your big tall tale way up in the sky
Begging on your knees for another chance
But everybody knows that's a song and a danceThere used to be a time when you were the best
You had the fastest tongue in the west
You gave a look and a line like nobody else
You'd try to sell the Bible to the Devil, himselfYou sadistic little liar
You're walkin' on the wire
You're bluffin' up with nothin'
And the bills are gettin' higherWhy trust you
You never made a dream come true
Why trust you
Give me one good reason, one good reason why
Trust youThe noose is getting tighter
Your face is turning whiter
You can stuff it up your muffin'
And go stick it in the fireWhy trust you
You never made a dream come true
Why trust you, give me one good reason
One good reasonWhy trust you
You never made a dream come true
Why trust you, give me one good reason
One good reasonWhy trust you, why trust you
Why trust you, why trust you
Why trust you
