Saosin

I miss the part, when we were moving forward now

(On our way down)

But maybe someday, I'll be something more than love
Just know I'll never tell
And when you're on your way down

(Through the clouds)

And you're waiting for your body's re-entry again
We speak in different voices

When fighting with the ones we've loved

We speak in different voices

Why can't we say what we're thinking of?
I'm missing parts, now that you've told me everything

(On our way down)

And I was blessed and I've forgotten how to love
You said, you'd never tell
And when you're on your way down

(Through the clouds)

And you're waiting for your body's re-entry again
We speak in different voices

When fighting with the ones we've loved

We speak in different voices

Why can't we say what we're thinking of?
Not even I will tell
We speak in different voices

When fighting with the ones we've loved

We speak in different voices

We say these things to know they're real
We speak in different voices

When fighting with the ones we've loved

We speak in different voices

Why can't we say what we're thinking of?
We speak in different voices

When fighting with the one's we've loved

We speak in different voices

(We speak in different voices)
To know they're real, real

I'll never
