Drunk

Silkworm

You drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you put it on my tab
You put it on my tabYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you take what you should've left
And leave what you should've grabbedWhat drunk with any common sense at all
Would mix his beer and gin like that?
You must really want to get it backOr may I suggest a draft to help you digest
The sugar in that Boone's Farm Wine
Or any other really cheap apple kindYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you put it on my tab
You put it on my tabYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you take what you should've left
And leave what you should've grabbedWhat kind of drunk with any self-respect at all
Would give up on his friends that way
Would give in to the pressure's sway?I never asked you to swim
In that soup bowl of contempt
So full of wine and bar mop slop
Spilling on the girls like a bull in a china shopYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you put it on my tab
You put it on my tabYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you take what you should've left
And leave what you should've grabbedWhat drunk with any common sense at all
Would mix his beer and gin like that?
You must really want to get it backDid I ever ask you to swim
In that soup bowl of our contempt?
So full of wine and bar mop slop
Spilling on the girls like a bull in a china shopYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you put it on my tab
You put it on my tabYou drink and drink
You never got a reason
But you take what you should've left
And leave what you should've grabbedYou take what you [Incomprehensible]
