

I Always Said You'd Be Back

Bucky Covington

I don't mean to brag
But I was right all along
Everybody told me
When she's gone, she's gone
Well it sure feels good
To prove 'em all wrong
As a matter of fact

I always said you'd be back
For your things, your earrings, your old blue jeans
Your coffee pot and your magazines
Your stereo, your color TV
Everything but me
For your bathrobe, your pantyhose
Drama paint for your pretty little toes
And every other thing that you didn't have time to pack
I always said you'd be back
When you stormed out of here
You were (?)
To be mad at me
For a long long time
Wheels were a-spinnin' and the gravel was flyin'
Oh but look at that

I always said you'd be back
For your things, your earrings, your old blue jeans
Your coffee pot and your magazines
Your stereo, your color TV
Everything but me
For your bathrobe, your pantyhose
Drama paint for your pretty little toes
And every other thing that you didn't have time to pack
I always said you'd be back
Talk 'bout (?) bottle of Jack Daniels
But losing you was more than I could handle
I always said you'd be back
For your things, your earrings, your old blue jeans
Your coffee pot and your magazines
Your stereo, your color TV
Everything but me
Your fake fur, your leopard skin purse
Sack of shoes and a last word
And every other thing that you didn't have time to pack
I always said you'd be back
I always said you'd be back
I always said you'd be back
