

Future Ghosts

Chrome

Stuck in time shadows under my pillow awake me walk into the window looking down at the shiny metallic monster your soft sticky pearls surround my mind to capture looking down to see what's going on down under too many future ghosts and density on the run looking back there's something there to imagine looking back to see what's going on the downside that look in your eye could it turn steel into dust?

Years ago you know our instincts were lost
