Some Other Fool

Brent Loveday

Why dont you go home to your mother while shell still have you back?
Before you burn every bridge untie yourself, child, from the tracks.
A place like this aint no place for a girl like you.
Let some other fool rush in before you do.
Why dont you lay a bet that youre sure is gonna pay?
Why dont you listen to reason, before youve thrown it all away?
Why cant you read the warning labels wrote on these arms and neck?
Let some other fool have your seat in this wreck.
I know you keep thinking it wont happen to you, but let me reassure you: nobody makes it through.
And when youre laid up, the way they all end up, youll know every word I said was true.
Why dont you go home to your mother before the shame is too much?
Why cant you tell the difference between love and the devils touch?
Are you so reckless?
And why are you so proud?
Let some other fools head be bowed.
Let some other fools head be bowed.
Let some other fools head be bowed.
