

Chicago Is So Two Years Ago (Album Version)

Fall Out Boy

my heart is on my sleeve wear it like a bruise or blackeye my badge, my witness that means that i believed every single lie you said cause every pane of glass that your pebbles tap negates the pains i went through to avoid you and every little pat on the shoulder for attention fails to mention i still hate you

but there's a light on in chicago and i know i should be home all the colors of the street signs..

they remind me of the pickup truck out in front of your neighbor's house

she took me down and said:
"boys like you are overrated. so save your breath." loaded words and loaded friends are loaded guns to our heads

cause every pane of glass that your pebbles tap negates the pains i went through to avoid you
and every little pat on the shoulder for attention fails to mention i still hate you

but there's a light on in chicago
and i know i should be home
all the colors of the street signs..

they remind me of the pickup truck out in front of your neighbor's house

you want apologies girl, you might hold your breath until your breathing stops forever, forever the only thing you'll get is this curse on your lips: i hope they taste of me forever

but there's a light on in chicago
and i know i should be home
all the colors of the street signs..

they remind me of the pickup truck out in front of your neighbor's with every breath i wish your body will be broken again

with every breath i wish your body would be broken again
with every breath i wish your body will be broken again
with every breath i wish your body would be broken again

---

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>