

Where Are You

Saves the Day

Where are you and where am I?
We've been slipping slowly south
To the starry sky tonight
I guess my tongue is tied I feel the earth quaking beneath me
'Cause I'm not sure what's going on It feels like elephants
Trampling my hollow chest
If I could move just one fingernail
I'd scratch your name on the back of my hand
So I would never forget you again And as for now, I'm just dangling
Between the moon and melon sunset Remember when was way back then
