History

Matthew West

It's been a bad day, you've been looking back
All you can see is everything you wish you could take back
All your mistakes, a world of regrets
All of those moments you would rather forget
I know it's hard to believe
Let me refresh your memory
Yesterday is history and history is miles away
So leave it all behind you
Let it always remind you of the day
The day that love made history
You know you can't stay right where you fell
The hardest part is forgiving yourself
But let's take a walk into today
And don't let your past get in the way
'Cause yesterday is history and history is miles away
So leave it all behind you
Let it always remind you of the day
The day that love made history
Would you believe that you are history
In the making, in the making
Every choice that you are making

Every step that you are taking
Every chain that you are breaking
History is in the making
Every word that you are saying
Every prayer that you are praying
Every chain that you are breaking
History is in the making
History is in the making
History is in the making
Yesterday is history and history is miles away
So leave it all behind you
Let it always remind you of the day
The day that love made history
History is in the making
Every word that you are saying
Every prayer that you are praying
Every chain that you are breaking

History is in the making
History is in the making
History is in the making

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/