

Distraction

Fictionist

Honey, be my distraction
To keep me from dwelling on
All the things I did back then
And the things I left undone

Regret's a shadow
So honey, turn down the lights
My back is aching from my way today
And I wanna feel all right

I wait for judgment
I wait so patiently
I know they're blowing smoke
But the words sting like killer bees

And honey, be my distraction
To save me from myself
Nobody wants what I got to give
Don't want nobody else

You're the only one
Yeah, you are the only one
Yeah, you're the only one
Who understands where I'm coming from

I had to run for cover
In the slightest rain
Avoiding confrontation
'Cause I'm afraid of the pain

Nobody wants to be a victim
But we play it out so well
One more day in the garden
But tomorrow there'll be hell
To pay
Hell to pay

You're the only one
Oh, you are the only one
Yeah, you're the only one

Oh, you are the only one
Oh, you're the only one
Yeah, you are the only one
Yeah, you're the only one
Who understands where I'm coming from

Who understands where I'm coming from
Who understands where I'm coming from
Yeah
Understands, whoa
