Take Me

Edwin McCain

I pull my boots off, throw my weapons on the floor

I cry my eyes out in my private little warWell it seems I've been a soldier heaven knows I've been no saint With my camouflage and armor a cold heart and grease paint

To you this has no meaning the armistice laid down

The armies are all quiet and the guns don't make a sound'Cause you, you melted the steel walls, tore down the barbed wire

Filled in the trenches, demanded a cease fire

And now you're leaving there's nothing I can do

I want you to know you're gonna take me with youOh now three on a match is suicide in the foxhole of my mind

And way off in the distance the air raid sirens whine

And they sing your song of rescue to my tattered worn out shell

You drag me to your safety from this my front line hell'Cause you, you melted the steel walls and tore down the barbed wire

Filled in the trenches, demanded a cease fire

And now you're leaving there's nothing I can do

I want you to know you're gonna take me with youThe blood that was spilled in the heartache before

Left road maps of scars that I never, never could ignoreTill you melted the steel walls, tore down the barbed wire

Filled in the trenches, demanded a cease fire

And now you're leaving there's nothing I can do I want you to know now you're gonna take me with youOh yeah, yeah
