

Who You Are

JJ Heller

All she wanted
was a baby to hold.
She's still waiting
at forty-one years old.
Her life feels like a tragedy,
And it's driving her down to her knees.
She says...

I don't know,
I don't know what You're doing,
But I know Who You are.

It was after midnight
When he answered the phone.
The doctor said his daughter
Was never coming home.
Sometimes life doesn't make any sense;
Full of war and pain and accidents.
He's praying...

I don't know,
I don't know what you're doing,
But I know Who You are.

You have a father's heart
And a love that's wild.
And you know what it's like to lose;
Yeah, you know what it's like -
What it's like to lose a child.

Sometimes I don't know,
I don't know what You're doing.
I don't know,
I don't know
Sometimes I don't know,
I don't know what You're doing,
But I know Who You are.

Lyrics submitted by Sharon Cochran.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>