

Superman

Rachel White

In a crowded room
He walks up to me
Says hello and he compliments me
And he can't wipe the smile off his face
Standing there with his eyes on me
I'm so surprised I can hardly speak
He's all I can see in this whole place
But when his friends come around
He clams right up
Like an open book the wind blew shut
Somehow, I've just got to say to him
That I just want you to know
That my mind won't let you go
And if you want to stick around
And just hang out for a little while
Hey, that's alright with me
I glance at him across the room
Hoping we can meet again soon
He sure doesn't know what he'd be missing
But I'm just gonna let it go
And cross my fingers that he knows
This time, it's not just in his head, no
So I just want you to know
That my mind won't let you go
And if you want to stick around
And just hang out for a little while
Hey, that's alright with me
So I'll sit right here and write this song
Until the right time comes along
And my superman returns
To save my day
I just want you to know
That my mind won't let you go
And if you want to stick around
And just hang out for a little while
Hey, that's alright
But I just want you to know
That my mind won't let you go
And if you want to stick around
And just hang out for a little while
Hey, that's alright with me
That's alright with me
