Car

Five Iron Frenzy

Imagine you held left him to fly so tight your best friend and never could reach him Standing at the peak where two waves meet Peering like a flower never taught to grow Someone fond of living always will remember Are you just behind the other side of music? Chorus: (I am blessed, I will endure) We are blessed, we endure Our eyes always looked dark and the same what does he see And when Cars a sword its wit that stings who returns his smile? Now he will be used in our Fathers army Not as one who kills but one who always heals Can I take his burden, who am I to follow? envisioning last night and Cars last mountain drive One who travels knows too well the panicked call from the truck stop I held tight to the phone booth
