

Seen It All

Bombshell Rocks

He was one of the few true rebels, a small town bomber
Drew his final tag and ran out of sight
And he was no simple thief or dirty robber
21 years of age, he kissed the world goodnightHe said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"
He said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"2 o'clock in a weak condition
Riding on his bike through the old neighborhood
Accept the truth, see the death of a vision
Wondering about the things he never understoodHe said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"
He said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"Soul scars and homeward bound
When all your dreams are falling dead to the ground
Soul scars and grinding pain
Old friend memories remain, remainHe was one of the few true rebels, a small town bomber
Drew his final tag and ran out of sight
And he was no simple thief or dirty robber
21 years of age, he kissed the world goodnightHe said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"
He said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall"He said, "I'm leaving, I've seen it all
Your name is written on the wall
I've seen it all"

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>