Two Letter Sins

Eyes Set To Kill

Will you climb up to get me, release your grip
I've got time to be wasted don't try to leave, don't try to leave
It seems to me that I'm never sober, I can't rely on living lies
I really wish we could start it over just you and me
When we touched you initialed into my skin
With the scratch of a nail carve two letter sins, two letter sins
It seems to me that I'm never sober, I can't rely on living lies
I really think we should start it over just you and me
It seems to me that I'm never sober, my tongue is dry and doused with lies

I really think we should start it over just you and me
Just you and me
Will you climb up to get me, release your grip
Will you climb up to get me, release your grip
It seems to me that I'm never sober, I can't rely on living lies
I really think we should start it over just you and me
It seems to me that I'm never sober, my tongue is dry and doused with lies
I really think we should start it over just you and me, just you and me
Just you and me
