World On Fire

Biohazard

Take a good hard look at yourself as the world that you live in you now destroy
Don't cry, just ask yourself why you never cared until you started to die
World on fireGive me one good reason to respect the laws that you obey
Step back and watch it burn as the life you live just slips awayManipulate the ignorant hordes into hating each other and fighing your wars
With no respect for the people who died and no assistance for the families that cry
World on fireYou expect me to believe that you shoot and kill in the name of peace?
You fuel the hateful twisted minds of the wretched, cruel, diseased
Give me one good reason to respect the lies that you obey, step back and Watch it burn as the life you live just slips away
Don't let it slip away
