Arrival

Lethal

An early warning
Forging notes that never die
The air now rings with dissonant soundScreaming our last prayer
For this cross that we bare grows much heavier
Holding us down when we fall from our feetAs the storms of time subside
This coals from past life will fuel this fireDreams carry us on to believe
And die for the things we had hoped for
The arrival sets us freeA killing season
Blinding words obscuring the plain
Poisoning the lips of a newborn in vainDistant skies of light
Deliver us from the night we were drowning
Now we've been washed onward to a new shoreAs the storms of time subside
This coals from past life will fuel this fireDreams carry us on to believe
And die for the things we had hoped for
The arrival sets us freeDreams carry us on to believe
And die for the things we had hoped for
The arrival sets us freeThey call this reason
Different views through different eyes
If you speak the truth, why do I see lies?Distant skies of light will smooth these rough seas
That we ride we were drowning
Now we've been washed onward to a new shore over and over
