

Things She Said

Kent

Down under water I'm pale blue
Deep down the chlorine smells like you
Was it you that held too tight?
Was it me that was too weak?
I will leave you where you lay
While I slip and slide away Behind my wristwatch the skin is white
Behind my wristwatch where winter hides
Was it you that held too tight?
Was it me that was too weak?
I will leave you where you lay
While I slip and slide away The little things that she says
What do they say to me
The little things that she does
What do they do to me
The little things that she says
What do they say to me
The little things that she does The little things that she says
What do they say to me
The little things that she does
What do they do to me
The little things that she says
What do they say to me
The little things that she does
