

The Night Starts Here

Stars

The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear
The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear The pleasure pot, the after thought
The missing stone in the graveyard
The time we had, the task at hand
The love it takes to become a man The dust at dawn is rained upon
Attaches itself to everyone
No one is spared, no one is clean
It travels places you've never been or seen before The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear
The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear You drop a coin into the sea
And shout out please come back to me
You name your child after your fear
And tell them I have brought you here The pleasure pot, the after shock
The moment that it takes to fall apart
The time we have, the task at hand
The love it takes to destroy a man The ecstasy, the being free
A big black cloud over you and me
And after that, the upwards fall
And worry angels after all I don't know, I don't know The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear
The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear You drop a coin into the sea
And shout out please come back to me
You name your child after your fear
And tell them I have brought you here The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear
The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear You drop a coin into the sea
And shout out please come back to me
You name your child after your fear
And tell them I have brought you here The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear
The night starts here, the night starts here
Forget your name, forget your fear You drop a coin into the sea
And shout out please come back to me
You name your child after your fear

And tell them I have brought you here

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>