Looking For A Way Out

Uncle Tupelo

When you find you can't somehow
Make it like all the rest
You won't need to scrounge
Around for someone elseTorn between the unknown
And the place that you call home
And the life you want
But have never knownThere was a time
You could put it out of your mind
Leave it all behind
There was a time
That time is goneWhat has a life of fifty years
In this town done for you
Except to earn your name
Place on a barstoolYou spent your whole life in this country
You've never been out of state
You say, you're gonna
Make it out before it's too lateThere was a time
You could put it out of your mind
Leave it all behind
There was a time
That time is goneThere was a time when nothing seemed
To make much sense
That's turned more intense
And all the crutches you've kept around
Now are nowhere to be foundRemember when you didn't have
To look ahead or behind you
There was always something
Right there to doBut now it's life in some kind
Of trap looking for a way out
Well, you keep moving on
That's what it's all aboutThere was a time
You could put it out of your mind
Leave it all behind
There was a time
That time is gone
