

Sarah

Patrick Moran

When we first met we were kids, we were wild, we were insects
And after a while I grew coarse, I grew cold, I grew reckless
 I hold this memory, hold you so close to me
 Whispered we'll be always happy
Lately it feels like I'm asleep and I just can't wake up
 Pacing the floor, want to call but I can't so I hang up
 Sharing a secret on the train with a lady
 Who's crying has ruined her make up
 Now I see just how young, how scared I was
Eyes closed tight, throwing punch after punch at the world
 Sarah, is it ever gonna be the same?
 Sarah, is it ever gonna be the same?
 Said goodbye to all the places I used to go
 Said goodbye to all the faces I used to know
 Nothing lasts forever
 I guess by now I should know, I should know
 There ain't a thing I can say that will ever repair
And you, who had so much advice and yet couldn't share
 Maybe someday we will look back on this
 And we'll smile but right now I can't bear
 Now I see just how young, how scared I was
Eyes closed tight, throwing punch after punch at the world
 Sarah, is it ever gonna be the same?
 Sarah, is it ever gonna be the same?
