Mellow

Reef

I hear the ocean beat upon the shore outside my room
Calling me up from sleep to listen to her graceful tune
She makes me feel alive, her power more than words can say
Send shivers through my person, clears my head to face the dayI pray
The tides will rise and fall againI see the sun rise up into a cloudless sky of blue
Coaxing the shadows back to let the suns light shine on through
I feel it touch my skin, its warmth glows through right to my bones
Drifts softly through my body, heats my flesh then stirs my soulI pray
The sun will surely rise today
And I will not take for granted that what is there for me
