Faces

One Less Reason

I like the faces you make at me when we're lyin' in bed
They are always so beautiful
I like it when you tug your body close to me
When we're sleepin', it's all right
And dream your fears away and I'll be here all day
And dry your eyes 'cause I'm here to spend
This moment in your arms again
The forecast calls for rain to take away the day
I guess we'll just have to stay inside the room
I'll bring your breakfast warm to wake you from your dream
As I lift your head upright
And dream your fears away and I'll be here all day
And dry your eyes 'cause I'm here to spend
This moment in your arms again
Dream your fears away and I'll be here all day
And dry your eyes 'cause I'm here to spend
This moment in your arms again
And so would love, the day between us comes and goes
So soon but it's so magical
You bring the lock, I'll bring the key to set you free
As I lay your body down
And dream your fears away and I'll be here all day
And dry your eyes 'cause I'm here to spend
This moment in your arms again
This moment now, this moment now, now
This moment now
This moment in your arms, this moment in your arms
This moment in your arms again
